

New Asia College, The Chinese University of Hong Kong
Student Activity Fund 2024/2025
Application Guidelines

Introduction

To encourage students to organize or participate in various activities to widen their exposure and enrich their knowledge, the College established this fund to subsidize individuals or student bodies to gain experience in organizing and taking part in an array of activities.

Types of activities to be subsidized include international activities (e.g. competitions, talks and seminars), short-term overseas exchange programmes (excluding one-semester/one-year exchange programmes), study trips, courses, annual performances and community services. The College hopes that these activities can enable students to learn different culture of places worldwide, deepen their mutual understanding, enrich their experience and facilitate exchange between universities.

4. The College will partially subsidize the activities only.
5. The approved subsidy must be disbursed to a bank account held by College students (in the case of joint account, at least one holder should be a College student).
